REVIVAL OF BUSINESS NEAR, MARY WANNAMAKER.

Montgomery Journal.
In an interview in the Philadelphia Ledger John Wannamaker, one whose judgment in business matters is second to no man in this country, taken a very hopeful view of the business outlook. He expressed every confidence that there will be a very general revival of business. In the next two weeks he confidently predicted conditions in this country will take a turn for the better.

"The scaffolding is now up for the new building," said Mr. Wannamaker. "This includes the adjustment of the cotton situation and the easing up of the strain in financial circles. Added to that this country is taking care of its foreign obligations in the way of bonds, although the rate of exchange is now higher than it is normally and will probably be reduced. And so everything, I think, points to easier times."

There will be great opportunities for American manufacturers as a result of the European war, Mr. Wannamaker firmly believes.

"Even though the war was to stop tomorrow," he said, "it would be at least two years before the manufacturers of Europe could turn out their normal output again because of the disorganization of their plants and the thousands of factory men, many of them expert workmen who will be among the missing men when the plants reopen."

"And Europeans, as well as the markets they have been supplying, will have to look to someone else. There is the opportunity for America."

The matter of securing loans was another phase of the situation which Mr. Wannamaker discussed. He said that the banks were loaning money now chiefly to their friends. "I have been talking the situation over with a New York banker, and a friend of mine," he went on, "and he tells me that his bank is making small loans rather than big ones. This banker is of the opinion that the little fellow should receive help rather than the big ones. The latter can take care of themselves, but it is the manufacturer with a small plant, a few employees, that this bank is aiming to help tide over the present situation."

MR. CARNEGIE'S VERSION.

Savannah News.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie, known for his millions and his advocacy of peace, has found out who started the European war, and on his arrival in New York from Europe on Friday told all about it. He said that the German Emperor was away on his yacht in the North sea, enjoying his holiday, when the mischief was done. He said: "The trouble was started by the German military caste that rules the country. The Kaiser gathered around him a group of men who, unknown to him, acted in concert, and in his absence took an action that couldn't be altered."

Mr. Carnegie is a great friend and a great admirer of the German Emperor. He thinks that he is a marvelous man and has done wonders for Germany. Nobody will take issue with Mr. Carnegie on the question as to what the German Emperor has done for Germany, but there may be many who differ with him as to the extent of the German Emperor's responsibility for the war.

But assuming that Mr. Carnegie is right in saying that the military caste brought on the war, will not the world sentiment pretty generally hold the German Emperor responsible for the military caste, for having around him the group of men who, Mr. Carnegie says, brought on the war? Mr. Carnegie puts the German Emperor in the position of not knowing what was going on under his very eyes. We don't undertake to say what is responsible for the war, but Mr. Carnegie doesn't appear to have done the Kaiser much of a service.

THE PROBLEM NOVEL.

Commercial Appeal.

If Anthony Comstock was as scrupulous about problem novels as he seems to be about the production of problem plays, he could accomplish far more good for the morals of the general public. Problem plays are bad enough, but the present problem novel is even worse. There is this difference. Men and women have to go in public to witness the performance of a play. Their children can be kept away from the theatre. The problem novel can be read in secret. It can fall into the hands of the young and the innocent and be read behind closed doors.

The problem novel which treats of the serious and the perplexing problems of life may be accepted. It is the novel which insidiously parades vice that should be censored.

Public taste of late has seemed to demand the novel which treats forbidden things. It seems that there is no limit and the author can permit his or her imagination to run riot.

The roses and raptures of vice are pictured enticingly. Vice is made attractive. Problems of sex are analyzed with so much frankness and with so little value for morality that sin loses its ugly color and becomes to the uninitiated bewildering bright.

It may be answered that such novels date back to the earliest days of literature and that the classics are far worse than any novel of today. This is possibly true. The ancient treated issues of vice, however, differently, and even if they did not, this would be no acceptable excuse as to why the markets should be flooded with novels which are redolent with suggestive and immoral thoughts.

Members of the American Academy of Arts and Letters have gone on record as lamenting the manner in which so many writers, capable of better things, continue to dip their pens into the mire and smear their beautiful thoughts over realms of white paper.

By mire, in this instance, we mean the sort of novel which tacitly or openly preaches revolt against the maxims and customs of established society under the present moral order. Its immediate injurious effect is to diminish regard for home life and for common sense morality. This is the sense in which the term problem is used.

It is not necessary to mention recent publications which in common decency should not be permitted to be sold in the public market. To mention them would only be to advertise such books.

When men and women of letters who are capable of helping to educate the world so far forget their calling as to pander to public taste that they should be held in check by law—that is, if the pandering means to appeal to immoral instincts.

We have no censor of plays or books in this country, and sometimes it seems a regrettable matter that we have not. They might not be able to eliminate all such publications, but they could at least regulate their sale, and the novels which openly advocate infidelity and unfaithfulness to the marriage vow could be suppressed.

As long as the public demands such novels there will be found writers, both men and women, who will be willing to cloak their better genius and pander to such unworthy desires.

Don't forget, it's pecans not pe-kons.

The first breath of fall makes trade pick up and some of the merchants are feeling pretty fit.

There is but little chance of the population of the world becoming so dense that food will be a question. So long as wars can be sprung by half a dozen fellows, who never get close enough to smell the powder, just so long will men line up and shoot men whom they haven't any quarrel with.

FOR STATE FEDERATION
the Montgomery Advertiser the first fall days, now en-and interest seems to have been everywhere. The club start with this week, and many other women have so evening programs, and they promise many interesting plans on foot, that it would take hours to write about all of them. The thing of greatest interest however, will be the annual convention of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs, which will be held in this city November 17, 18, and 19. It will be a "hotel" convention and all of the meetings will be held at the Exchange Hotel.

The Montgomery club women will be the hostesses of the occasion and will entertain the visitors royally.
Mrs. Olin Kirkland, the president of the Montgomery Federation of Women's Clubs, has appointed a number of the committees, and others will be announced later. Mrs. J. A.
Kirkpatrick is chairman of the program committee; the members will be published later, as they are out of town women. Mrs. Crawford T.
Ruff is chairman of the Entertainment Committee, and Mrs. Belle Allen Ross, the president of the No-Name Club is assistant chairman.
The committee is composed of the Executive Board of the City Federation of Women's Clubs; the presidents of the various literary clubs of the city for the past year, and the presidents of other organizations belonging to the city Federation. The Committee on Homes for Delegates will be composed of Mesdames W.
J. Hannak, Mrs. Walton Hill, Mrs.
Robert Arrington, Mrs. Owen Brewer, Mrs. Gaston Griel, Mrs. Nathan Lohman and Mrs. W. L. Durr.

On the evening of Wednesday, November 18, the club women of Montgomery will entertain at a reception from 9:15 o'clock until 11 o'clock. The reception will be preceded by a concert to be given at 8:15 o'clock by the Music Clubs of the State Federation.

On the afternoons of November 17 and 19, automobile rides to the Montgomery Country Club, to the Capital City Country Club and to the State Capitol have been planned, as well as visits to other educational institutions in the city. The Program Committee of the State Federation is preparing plans for the evening women have so to be most interesting. The names of the speakers for the evening will not be announced until later.

NEWS OF INTEREST FROM WASHINGTON, D. C.

The White House is the spend-maker, the key-note setter. The White House is in mourning. Mourn the court circles likewise be swathed in gloom?

The diplomatic corps is the element that lends brilliancy and dash to Washington society. The diplomatic corps, every man Jack of 'em, so to speak, is thinking daggers of all the rest of the corps who represent countries involved in the present unpleasantness.

So it won't do to mix up geography. Something might explode.

Don Juan Riono, the Spanish ambassador, blandly declares that he is about the only man in the diplomatic corps not liable to run into an enemy when he goes out in society.

Everybody is absorbed in the war.
Nobody feels much like fun.

So there you are!

The optimistic foresee a season of unusual brilliancy, leaving the White House out of the question, of course, except for a few normal affairs and the hotel people are hoping for a harvest.

Rich Americans addicted to wintering in the fashionable haunts of Europe are perforce hustling back now, to home and mother. They must blow in their money somewhere and Washington in winter is the favorite of the plutocracy. As somebody said to me in all seriousness today, "What other place in America is there for a rich widow, but Washington?"

Washington being the great American mecca and the city of refuge from European hostilities, both foreigners and those of our own country who usually affect the Riviera or Paris or Switzerland or Italy in winter, are piling it on us. Bonifac-es are making unusually good bookings, even though money is few.

We are to get all the best foreign theatrical attractions, since there is no European market for their works.
So maybe, we may manage to cheer up a bit, after all.

With absolute punctiliousness every single demonstration of condolence that reached the White House at the time of Mrs. Wilson's death was promptly acknowledged. The message was conveyed in engraved script upon a correspondence card with a deep mourning border bearing the seal of the United States embossed in white. It stated that the president and his family appreciated the sympathy of Mr. and Mrs.
Blank.

Mrs. McAdoo, looking very chic and stylish in her mourning, was noticeable at the capitol the other morning when her father read his latest speech before congress. She was surrounded by Dr. Cary Grayson and other friends, as well as by her cousin, Miss Lucy Smith.—Exchange.

Mrs. J. W. Hollan has returned from a visit to relatives in Troy.

DISCUSS COTTON RELIEF PLANS

Washington, Sept. 28.—Six Governors of cotton growing states and representatives of four others met with senators and congressmen today to discuss cotton relief plans. A committee was appointed to draw up a plan. Meeting then adjourned till pleasure resort is not a stranger to the theatre going public, but as a good reliable Dothan ite, who has operated the Airdome for the past season, Mr. Alto Barnes.

Mr. Barnes explained to an Eagle reporter that he would bring nothing but the best attractions to Dothan. Tomorrow night Mr. Barnes will present at the Alamo Baby Albjone assisted by "Albazar," who are well known to Dothan theatre goers.

The construction of the Alamo will go down in the history of the theatrical world as being the quickest built theatre on record. Mr. Albrazar taking charge of the construction. There will be three reels of pictures. Mr. Barnes claims that regardless of what attractions he brings to the new theatre that the price of admission shall be ten cents.

Always remember the Alamo, and tell your friends to go and visit this new cozy play house.—The Alamo.

THE TRUTH about PAINT

The value of paint can only be measured by the length of satisfactory service it gives.
A building painted with Keg Lead and Oil Hand-mixed Paint or ordinary ready-mixed paint never looks well, and the results from this class of paint are never satisfactory.
In a short while your property will look as if it had not been painted for years.
To use cheap paint is a waste of both paint and labor.
Don't waste your money on unknown, untested brands.
Remember, painting is an investment, not an expense—therefore use the paint that stood the test of time—

"The Kind That Lasts" MASTIC PAINT "The Kind That Lasts"

It is the product of more than forty years' experience, and is guaranteed by the makers, Peaslee-Gaulbert Co., Louisville, Ky.

Mastic Paint is made of pure White Lead, re-inforced with Zinc Oxide in the correct proportions, and pure Linseed Oil. The formula appears on every can.

Mastic Paint covers more surface, lasts longer, looks better, and is
